

*The University of Gloucestershire hosts a Women's Media Studies
Network (WMSN) Event*

A primetime event with a truly contemporary take on the "happily ever after," this hit session takes a deadly serious look at academia, where the lives of women academics aren't always what they seem. Key speakers will present their experiences of an all-life approach to being a successful woman academic in media studies. Discussion will focus upon sustaining research and balancing this with work, life and institutional responsibilities.

Desperate Researchers

Thursday 10th May 2007 10am – 3pm

Pittville Studios, Albert Road, Cheltenham, GL52 3JG (opp. Racecourse), contact Jo at jgardehansen@glos.ac.uk

Programme

10-10.30am

Welcome with Tea and Coffee

10.30am -12pm

Themed Talks

Coming to academia later in life – Prof. Karen Ross, Coventry University

Balancing Teaching and Research – Prof. Jane Arthurs, University of West of England

Sustaining a Research Profile – Dr Jenny Owen, London South Bank University

12-1pm

Lunch

1-2.30pm

Discussion: Balancing Life, Work, Research and the Institution

2.30-3pm

Farewells with Tea and Coffee